I admire those authors who have the ability to write with a narrative that inspires not only the imagination, but also touches the most sensitive fibers of the heart prompting a change favorably. I admire those authors who have the art of making life lessons out of writings which lead to actions, and that itself is what my friend Sebastián Lara has accomplished on his first published novel. I must admit that when I read the title TAUDALV I felt confused for not knowing its meaning, and I am sure the same will go through your head before you start reading it, but I assure you that when you finally understand the why of these letters, it will strongly touch you and if you embrace this concept with faith, you will be able to radically change the way you see or perceive life. You have made a great decision by reading TAUDALV and wish fervently that the meaning of the union of these letters, accompany you for the rest of your life. Extract from the foreword by Dr. César Lozano. Santiago is one of those crazy people who think they can change the world and end up doing it. On the other hand, Andrea is one of those women who inspire those crazy. Andrea and Santiago will inspire you, give you hope, make you laugh, make you think, leading you in a trip through four countries. You will be prompted to dream and love, because thanks to the dreams and love of people, we will carry out actions that will help us live better. This young adult novel is based on research and reflection that the author conducted during four years.
