Human Design is a science that decodes the energetic wiring of the human body. Based on a precise birth time it's possible to understand how body and mind operate. Every human being is unique in nature. Human Design is not a "one for all" approach. Instead it offers a path to liberate you from the common concepts that take you further away from your unique gifts and talents. Two hundred years ago the human body began a mutation from the classic seven-centred Chakra body to a new nine-centred Uranian body, which has different characteristics than the Homo sapiens we knew. At bhantugh.com you can calculate the design of a person for free. The Graph is a visual representation of the major components that make up who you are. This book will help you understand what Human Design is, its history, how the calculations are made, and how to successfully read a Graph.
